

Research Assistant Application
Motivation, Attention, and Perception (MAP) Laboratory
Department of Psychology
University of South Florida – St. Petersburg

Psychology Area: Experimental/Cognitive
Faculty Sponsor: Jen O'Brien, Ph.D.
Contact Email: jenobrien@usf.edu

Description:

We are looking for bright, talented, and motivated undergraduates to join our research team. We encourage research assistants to become involved in the research process, including the exploration of your own interests. As part of your lab experience, you will attend a weekly lab meeting where we will discuss current studies and protocols, review research articles relevant to projects currently being conducted in the lab, and review tasks for the week.

Requirements:

Students are eligible to become a research assistant (RA) if they have successfully passed PSY 3213 Research Methods with a B or better. RAs

Undergraduate Research Assistant Application

Do you have any research experience? If yes, please describe:

Briefly explain why you are interested in obtaining research experience in the MAP lab:

What would you like to get out of your research assistant experience?

What are your career goals? What would you like to do long-term?